Dear Trix:

Thank you for sharing your artistry with the young people in our community. I was extremely pleased with your presentation in each of the assigned locations. Your interaction and engagement with the DHH students and their classmates was extraordinary. My goal was for all the students to experience the dramatic use of ASL performed by a professional artist. I was particularly interested in empowering the DHH students to read and tell stories with confidence and emotion. You truly inspired the students by capturing their attention with wonderful imagery.

You did an excellent job of tailoring your presentations to meet the goals of the CCSD Student Support Services and The Smith Center for the Performing Arts. Included with this letter are a few of the photographs from your sessions the morning of February 25. If you choose to use any of the photographs on your website or in publications, please give photographic credit to Geri Kodey. Thank you again for sharing your passion for the dramatic use of ASL and for children.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Candy Schneider". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a large initial "C" and a long, sweeping underline.

Candy Schneider, Director of Education and Outreach
